of those who are guarding our flag in the far away islands of the sea. How few trouble themselves to go down to Independence Hall to venerate the old bell! For many years those at home suffered it to lie covered with dust and forgotten in a cellar. Perhaps it was familiarity that bred contempt. But the old bell never left its shrine to carry its message to some distant part, that our countrymen did not gather by the way in their thousands to do it honor and to stimulate and refresh their American patriotism with a sight of the messenger of liberty. And if it shall traverse the country to the shore of the Pacific it will pass through a lane as broad as the continent of Americans whose devotion to flag and country no man can doubt.

When some years ago an effort was made to have the courts prevent the councils from sending the bell to the exposition at Atlanta, Judge Thayer decided the bell could go—Philadelphia Press.
